Take full advantage of the program with this elegant desktop enhancement application that will offer you a flawless color scheme change for your taskbar.On the 5th of May 2006, a Google Search was conducted by seeking the title of "the world's largest ball of yarn". A search revealed a small ball of yarn outside of the Brazilian town of Valença. In the search results was a picture of a ball of yarn which purported to be "the world's largest ball of yarn", with over 250 yards of yarn in the ball, and an estimated weight of 846 kg. This was presented as a "community sourced" search result by Google, displaying the image to the public on a Google Maps page. In the hours following the search, the original post on a Brazilian website was deleted by its owners, the image was deleted from Google, and a parody of the story was posted on the web, prompting a number of articles being posted on the news media.
