"FIFA 22 delivers the best-in-class gameplay that every player wants, on both the pitch and in the community." said Alvin Lau, Executive Producer of The Journey. "To further enhance the authenticity of the football experience, we have implemented our signature HyperMotion Technology in FIFA 22. This is a natural progression for FIFA as we continue to improve the overall quality of The Journey." FIFA 22 delivers a new, deeper squad intelligence that captures the personality and the match-day mood of each club. This intelligence is applied on all facets of the game, including team tactics, player personality traits, team shape, player positioning, ball control and ball evasion. New behaviours not available in any other sports title, include the new overall player behavior, where players will react to the flow of the match, strike fear in the opposition and create highlights for the crowd. In addition to the detailed squad intelligence, FIFA 22 brings new attributes that allow players to feel more confident on the pitch. This includes new controls, enhanced manager controls, new crowd-engagement triggers and the 'Away' experience, which allows the team to progress through the match irrespective of the score line. "Our goal is to make the gameplay as realistic as possible on the pitch," said Ricky Suliga, Executive Producer. "We designed FIFA 22 from the ground up to give players a more realistic football experience." The beautiful, immersive new stadiums come to life with a mix of brand new crowd animations, new player animations, new ways of capturing crowd noise and new ball physics, providing the kind of authenticity and authenticity that players expect from FIFA. The Journey's career mode, "MyClub," returns and takes players through a complete season following a successful, pro career. "MyClub," which was unveiled at FIFA World Cup Brazil 2014™, has been extended to include more career tracks, clubs and stadiums, as well as a host of new features such as the revamped transfer market, revamped ball physics, FIFA Ultimate Team, brand new Experience Mode, brand new Player Ratings, improved manager controls and more. FIFA 22 continues to embrace the movement of the ball and speed on the pitch. On-pitch gameplay has been sped up to more closely resemble real-life football. This includes an enhanced pass animation, an improved A.I. reactivity

Powered by and developed by EA SPORTS™ Global Leadership Summit: Telemetry vs. ECG Post navigation I'm closing in on a month spent wandering around the United States and attending the Global Leadership Summit in Anaheim. There have been several false starts, long subway rides, and a few minor car collisions along the way. I'll share the highlights, and maybe you'll have a chance to guess where I ended up. I had originally planned to travel east to west to cover the Global Leadership Summit as a correspondent for Elle. However, the one cool thing about the conference was that Elle folks were bringing their staff along to record a lot of the sessions, creating an opportunity for me to see the work of your organization that no one could have known about. It was cool to meet someone from the One Campaign, a charity that gets businesses to adopt open water protocols for their water and energy usage. The Oceans 4 All campaign organizes kids to take action on water pollution issues around the world, and it's amazing how much can happen when kids want to protect the oceans. It was also interesting to see how these various campaigns are built on the work of others. Ecosphere 2 this year had a Biohazard Challenge, a cross country obstacle race. It was as close to “contamination for a purpose” that I’ve ever been in. The 19 racers (10 men and 9 women) included people from all over the world, as well as celebrities like Aaron Paul (Breaking Bad), Natalie Portman, and Ashton Kutcher. We filmed a short bit of the race, which you can see above. We shared a hotel with the American Red Cross, so we could play “Red Cross” together
