The court ruled Thursday that the Alaska Constitution's free speech clause allows "domestic partners" to adopt children. "Alaska was one of the first states in the nation to recognize same sex partnerships by constitutional amendment and that means it is of significance," said Stephen Sanders, an attorney for the plaintiff. "If we had passed the (gay marriage) constitutional amendment, then the public policy of that would be very different than our public policy of domestic partnerships." Alaska was a pioneer in legalizing gay marriage in 1998. Q: TinyMCE: TinyMCE having whitespace in the beginning and end of the code I'm using TinyMCE in a Django project. It works fine, but it contains whitespaces in the beginning of the code, and in the end. It's something like this: // {here, and here, and here, and here} (function() { ... Is there any way to get rid of this whitespace? A: Try to set the clean_up_callback in the tinymce.init() call, like this: tinymce.init({ ... "clean_up_callback": function(editor_id) { var editor = tinymce.editors[editor_id]; editor.windowManager.onshow().bind(editor.windowManager, 'onshow', function () { editor.selection.select(0, false
