Hypertension is a major, modifiable risk factor for heart failure and stroke and accounts for 15% of all deaths in the United States. Hypertension causes about half of all deaths among African-Americans. Hypertension affects nearly 40% of African-Americans. Cardiac imaging has a critical role in the clinical diagnosis of hypertension. Cardiac imaging is of special importance in hypertensive patients who present with new or worsening symptoms, particularly those with end-organ damage, and also in patients with asymptomatic left ventricular hypertrophy. The purpose of the study is to develop and evaluate a cardiac imaging database, which will include hypertrophy imaging and cardiac syndrome imaging, thus enabling pre-diabetes detection among diabetic patients. The common disorders include hypertension, dyslipidemia, obesity, and microalbuminuria among others. The program will enable early diagnosis of cardiovascular diseases among diabetics, and our studies will provide the new cardio-imaging paradigm for cardiac assessment of diabetic patients.
