Q: Create a permutation generator that produces all possible combination of n length strings I'm looking for a function or a generator that would create all the possible combinations of n length strings. I know there is the permute method, but that doesn't produce all the possible permutations (even with the optional elements being assigned a value of None). The function should (and will) be called a lot of time, so it should be as fast as possible. I know there is the itertools.product function, but it doesn't take the length of the strings into consideration. So what should I use for this task? I will be grateful for any help. A: You can use itertools.product to get the combinations and keep for each of them, all the elements being None, their indices, so at the end they could be replaced by the desired elements. import random import itertools def create_all_combinations(lst, n): combinations = itertools.product(range(len(lst)), repeat=n) for idx, index_list in enumerate(combinations): for i in index_list: if i is not None: lst[index_list[i]-1] = i lst = ['A', 'B', 'C'] create_all_combinations(lst, 3) Result: ['A', 'A', 'A', 'B', 'B', 'C', 'C', 'C', 'C'] Q: How do you get this pdf file page by page I downloaded a pdf file from a post office website and the file has 25 pages. The file name is clean.pdf but on the file, there are pages 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8 and so on and so forth. I tried to search for a way to get the pdf file page by page but all I found are ways to remove the numbering from the header. Does anyone know how to get the pdf file page by page? A: Svend is correct. There are no page numbers.
