Spread the love New York, NY — An NYPD officer has been caught on camera violently slamming a handcuffed, innocent, and unconscious woman onto the ground. Julia Wallace, a New York resident, was arrested and taken to the 109th precinct with her fiancé in May 2015. During the booking process the officers began to search Wallace. She was then placed in the back of a police wagon, and was reportedly still “out cold.” As the cops began to search Wallace, one of the officers became frustrated with Wallace’s attempts to remain silent, which he considered a statement. This was when the incident took a turn for the worse. “He stands right over the top of her and just slams her down on the ground,” Wallace’s fiancé Billy Johnson told Gothamist. “That’s when I came up because I’m like, ‘Oh, no. Why is he just laying on top of her like that?’ He gets up and he’s like, ‘I’m about to lose my job and I have nothing to do with it. So you better shut the fuck up! I said, ‘You better shut the fuck up!’ and all that.” Wallace’s fiancé then revealed what happened next, “They zip-tie him. He doesn’t say anything. He doesn’t say anything but they zip tie his hands behind his back and then they put some type of belt around her. And I said, ‘Oh, my God. That’s my fiancé!’ And she goes, ‘I’m fine. Everything’s fine.’ And then the other officer says, ‘I’m going to place her on the back of the transport van.’” Wallace was driven to the 109th precinct in a police wagon, which was very clearly documented. The officer who slammed her to the ground was also identified by the NYPD in a press release. “As Wallace continues to lay on the ground, the officer (emphasis added) again stands on top of her body, tackles her, puts her on the ground and places handcuffs on her,” the statement read. When Johnson gets to the precinct, he said the officers are standing in the doorway of the precinct house
