there are many heroes in bubble bobble hero 2, but most of them can only run around the stage and jump, just like the original bubble bobble. luckily the guys from team blowfish, however, were lucky enough to add new types of hero as well: glitch, space, and samus. while samus is a great choice for melee-based characters, the glitch is great for mid-range attacks since he's slow and can charge for thousands of units and jumps into the air. you can find all three of them at the northwest corner of the stage. sure enough, some heroes are just too fast for the queen to catch. if she starts chasing you, consider taking refuge in the cracked tear. even though it has no boost to any attribute, it still helps a little with inflicting damage, and it can block enemies' bullets, too. it's also great for fighting back against archer heroes who have their bows pointed to you. a few other ideas for the cracked tear are the ultra-quick cracked tear that boosts speed by 3 percent, the magic-shrouding cracked tear which gives intelligence-based spells a 20 percent boost for three minutes, and the gelatinous cracked tear which turns enemies into goo and hides them. bubble bobble hero 2 also features an all new level-up system! rather than simply waiting for your hero to level-up naturally, you'll need to do your best to survive the challenge. you'll gain a certain amount of exp for every three seconds your hero is alive. fortunately, the more damage your hero can do, the more exp they'll gain! the hero will keep their damage if they don't die, but a hero will die if they reach 50% health.
