train simulator is a game of enduring frustration with some of the most complex training and level design ever seen in a railway game. however, with the ability to add in new content (route, signals, etc) as new 'add ons' are released, you can tailor the game to your needs and this is the true beauty of train simulator. we are always looking to add new route options and extra content to the game. all of our add-ons are designed to be used in conjunction with each other and, as we release them, we are adding a number of new routes and assets for you to use in your own custom games. one of the most popular of these add-ons is the north london line, a route that we have been releasing add-ons for for several years. this add-on is designed to be used in conjunction with our recently released north london line route, to allow the player to take part in the work on this route. the main reason for releasing this add-on is to allow the player to take a look at the work being undertaken on the north london line. there is no part of the north london line that hasn't been touched.

some areas are being rebuilt and re-engineered, some areas are being modified to allow for new lines, some areas are being moved, some are being refurbished, and some areas are being re-engineered to allow new lines to be built. as part of this add-on, there are several new routes available, all of which start in london and head to the north london line. every part of the north london line has been touched. and, just to make things a little bit more interesting, the north london line is a brand new route that has never been seen before in train simulator. with this add-on, you will be able to see the work that is being undertaken on the line.
