In order to complete the conversion process, you will need ArcSoft Media Converter 3.13 or later installed on your computer. You can download the latest free versions of ArcSoft Media Converter 3.13 from the ArcSoft website. The first thing you need to do is to select the output format of the final output of the multimedia files to be converted. This includes creating a new project, getting media, previewing the multimedia files, designating various folders to be included in the output, or any custom settings you require. Next, choose the original media, such as AVI files, MP4, MP3, MOV, JPG, etc., from your computer. After you have selected the media to be converted, choose the output directory to be used for saving the multimedia files. It is a good idea to save your files in a directory that is easy to locate and that is not located in the root of your hard disk drive. Next, click the Convert button to begin the conversion process. Depending on the size of your input media, the conversion process may take a few hours to finish. ArcSoft Media Converter will continuously update its progress and keep you informed of the conversion status. Upon completion, the output folder will be automatically created for storing the multimedia files. Many of the input and output settings of ArcSoft Media Converter 3.13 can be customized by the user. Some of the more important output settings include saving the converted files as a standard MP4 file, saving the converted files as an AVI file, saving the converted files as a WMV file, saving the converted files as a DVD media, and saving the converted files as a folder that is saved on your hard disk drive. You can also export your converted files to a specific bitrate, size, and format in order to save disk space. 5ec8ef588b
