In 2019, the CFDA released the fifth edition of the National Standards of Living and Consumer Behaviour Handbook, which expanded its content to help students of any age understand the framework and practices for promoting the well-being of children and youth. The Handbook gives students and teachers practical, research-based tools to support children in making better decisions about their health and environment. The Handbook continues to be available in print and online, and is free of charge. In addition, the CFDA has a variety of other products and services available for youth and families, including free publications, free community forums, and free youth events. For more information, see CFDA's product catalogue. Membership The Communications and Public Affairs Council of the CFDA (formerly the CFDA's Communications Committee) is composed of the chair of the council and three to five other CFDA members who volunteer their time to work on the communications and public affairs of the CFDA. The Communications Committee provides direction and guidance on national communications to build awareness on the topics and issues addressed by the CFDA. The committee also works to enhance public awareness of the CFDA's programs and activities. The membership of the CFDA also includes a group of ten additional individuals who volunteer their time as per RISO. RISO is a process of choosing volunteers based on expertise, skills and knowledge to support the program development and to deliver programs. RISO is a way to have a diverse representation in the CFDA, as well as to enhance the quality and professionalism of the CFDA's
